

WEALTHY

But what about happy?

More and more people are realising that wealth alone is rarely enough to fulfil every desire and attain happiness. They often end up missing things such as a warm homely atmosphere and someone with whom to share feelings and interests. This is often due to a lack of a partner. There's no way of compensating for this with material acquisitions – even having a large villa or a yacht will be insufficient if you have no one to share it with.

PROSPERITY PARTNER
SEARCHING & MATCHING

THE MISSING LINK

It's not easy to find a real life partner. Prosperity Partner aims to provide the missing piece by bringing together supply and demand, in a targeted and personal way, among people who are looking for a suitable partner. A partner who has the right profile in terms of social background, status, interests and values, and will stay with them through thick and thin. PP is highly selective in choosing its clients, and certainly doesn't take on every assignment. Prospective clients are expected to have a certain social standing, the right values, and a high degree of openness.

An extensive personal assessment measures the life situation, wishes and future vision of the client. Success factors critical to reaching a clear image are integrity, depth, discretion and trust. To make the analysis of the data as independent and comprehensive as possible, both a man and a woman are present during the interview. Sophisticated search and match techniques are used to formulate as complete a picture as possible of both the client and the partner he or she is looking for.

The life experience and instincts of the four partners also play an important role in the rigorous selection procedure. They are dedicated people who understand exactly what goes on in the world of successful men and women.

NOT JUST ANY MATCH

While people are increasingly using the internet to find a life partner, the current players in the matchmaking market are not suitable for people with high visibility, a high profile or captains of industry. PP has a leading position in the top segment of the market, and operates with a high degree of commitment and 100% confidentiality. It does not work with a public database accessible to everyone. All data remains anonymous – even, until almost the last moment, for the client and candidate.

Prosperity Partner has the ambition to find that one person who can give successful people the added value and wellbeing they deserve to make their life complete.
